Basic Philosophy: First Come, First Served

When an eligible cooperative claims a domain name, they are doing so guided by the desire to claim the name they have considered, planned for and perhaps committed to within their organization. Cooperatives that select and register their names before others have shown a willingness to support the .coop domain space and its goals for the cooperative community. The basic premise in dealing with questions about name registration in this regard is that of first come, first served.

While dotCoop's goal is to support the fair, balanced and efficient approval of eligibility and access to .coop domain names, disputes may arise - in some cases because of trademark issues and in other cases because of concerns within the cooperative community about the eligibility of specific organizations to register a .coop name.

ICANN's Uniform Dispute Resolution Policy

The Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers (ICANN) has long recognized that disputes will arise over Internet domain name registration. Experience has led to the development of the Uniform Dispute Resolution Policy (the "UDRP") which provides an avenue to fairly address and resolve naming disputes. The disputes that will arise are generally classified as registrations made in "bad faith." ICANN's guidelines defining "bad faith" are, as follows:

- i. circumstances indicating that you have registered or you have acquired the domain name primarily for the purpose of selling, renting, or otherwise transferring the domain name registration to the complainant who is the owner of the trademark or service mark or to a competitor of that complainant, for valuable consideration in excess of your documented out-of-pocket costs directly related to the domain name; or
 - ii. you have registered the domain name in order to prevent the owner of the trademark or service mark from reflecting the mark in a corresponding domain name, provided that you have engaged in a pattern of such conduct; or
 - iii. you have registered the domain name primarily for the purpose of disrupting the business of a competitor; or
 - iv. by using the domain name, you have intentionally attempted to attract, for commercial gain, Internet users to your web site or other on-line location, by creating a likelihood of confusion with the complainant's mark as to the source, sponsorship, affiliation, or endorsement of your web site or location or of a product or service on your web site or location.
- (NOTE: please see www.icann.org/udrp for the policy in its entirety.)

A trademark holder can initiate mandatory administrative proceedings by filing a complaint with an ICANN approved dispute resolution service provider. The World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) has been selected to provide this service by dotCoop (see www.wipo.org) dotCoop will cancel, transfer, or otherwise make changes to domain name registrations as rendered by a WIPO ruling.

dotCoop's Domain Name Dispute Resolution Policy (DCDRP)

DotCoop has combined both the UDRP and dispute procedures connected with .coop eligibility issues into a unified policy called the dotCoop Dispute Resolution Policy (DCDRP). The DCDRP provides for a means whereby a complainant may "dispute" the right of another to use or register a specific domain name. The DCDRP is included by inference in the dotCoop Registration Agreement (<http://www.nic.coop/downloads/?QuickLink=DCRA>).

In all standard matters related to domain name disputes, dotCoop will follow the formal guidelines established by ICANN as they relate to disputes and dispute resolution. However, because dotCoop believes disputes over name selection will be minimal within the cooperative community, its policies will be directed towards facilitating informal solutions to disputes, thus minimizing costly and time consuming dispute resolution hearings or legal proceedings.

dotCoop Dispute Levels - Informal and Formal Disputes

It is the role of dotCoop to work to avoid the escalation of disputes to the level of costly and time-consuming formal dispute resolution process if at all possible without undermining ICANN and dotCoop policies. Neither dotCoop nor ICANN will be party to any administrative procedure or lawsuit that may arise at any time.

Disputes are initially classified in the following levels:

Level 1.

Applicant applies for a Domain Name and it is unavailable. The applicant refers to the "WHOIS" directory and determines who has registered the name. The applicant can contact the registrant and arrange for transfer under terms established between the two parties. dotCoop is not involved in these negotiations. There is no dispute.

Level 2.

Applicant applies for its own trade name, registered trademark, service mark or name to which it has a legitimate claim. The name is not available. The applicant refers to the "WHOIS" directory and determines who has registered the name. The applicant contacts the owner and arranges for transfer under terms established between the two parties. dotCoop is not involved in these negotiations. There is no dispute.

Level 3.

Applicant applies for its own trade name, registered trademark, service mark or name to which it has a legitimate claim. The name is not available. The applicant refers to the "WHOIS" directory and determines who has registered the name. The applicant contacts the current registrant but the applicant and registrant cannot establish a transfer agreement.

The applicant may then contact dotCoop to file a Dispute Report at support@nic.coop. The Dispute Report lists the identification of both the applicant and the registrant and details the dispute.

DotCoop reviews the claim and contacts both parties in writing informing each that a dispute has been lodged and that, based on ICANN policy, it may represent a dispute under the UDRP or DCDRP process. DotCoop details the process and provides information on the dispute procedure. Any correspondence related to the dispute will be kept on file by dotCoop.

The registrant of the name in dispute, as a condition of its continued claim on the Domain Name, is asked to participate in the UDRP or DCDRP process. If the registrant does not respond to a formal inquiry from dotCoop on the Dispute Report within 30 days, the applicant must then indicate to dotCoop whether they plan to file a formal complaint under the appropriate dispute policy. If a dispute will be filed, the dispute is escalated to Level 4.

If the applicant decides not to proceed with the Dispute, dotCoop may still choose to proceed with a review of the eligibility of the registrant for a .coop domain if eligibility criteria were noted by the applicant as a potential issue in the Dispute. DotCoop may then proceed with the Verification Process (see Verification Policy) which may result in revocation of the domain which may then be registered by any eligible organization. In that case, the basic rule of "first come, first served" shall apply to any revoked domains.

Dispute Escalation Levels

Level 4.

If an agreement cannot be reached between the parties directly, dotCoop provides information on the final steps to be taken for dispute resolution, provide all information on the dispute that is available and terminates any further direct involvement and contact with the parties in dispute, other than to facilitate any subsequent decision made by an administrative proceeding or court of law.

The parties may choose to move ahead with the dispute or the applicant may choose to end the dispute. The World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) has been selected by dotCoop to provide dispute resolution services to .coop domain name holders. WIPO conducts a formal, independent Administrative Proceeding in which the two parties present their respective views of a conflict to a neutral and impartial third party - the WIPO Panel. The Panel hears the parties' claims in conformity with ICANN's UDRP (www.icann.org/udrp), dotCoop's Dispute Resolution Policy (DCDRP) (Attachment A of this document), and WIPO's Supplemental Rules. After both parties have had a chance to make their case, the Panel will issue a decision that is binding on the parties.

dotCoop will make any changes, transfers or adjustments as have either been agreed to by both parties or ruled upon by formal dispute resolution bodies. Direction to take such action must be provided to dotCoop in writing from officers of both organizations in dispute or by the presiding officer of the formal body that has made a binding decision in the dispute.

dotCoop reserves the right to assess additional fees against the parties in the dispute based so as to cover the cost of lengthy or time consuming involvement in the dispute.

Attachment A

This Dotcoop Dispute Resolution Policy is to be incorporated in all agreements with registrants concerning domain-name registrations in the Sponsored TLD (the "Registration Agreement").

DotCoop Dispute Resolution Policy (DCDRP)

1. Purpose.

This DotCoop Dispute Resolution Policy (the "DCDRP") has been adopted by DotCooperation LLC ("dotCoop"), the Sponsoring Organization for the .coop TLD, is incorporated by reference into your Registration Agreement, and sets forth the terms and conditions in connection with a dispute between you and any party other than dotCoop over the registration and use of a .coop domain name registered by you. Proceedings under Paragraph 4 of this Policy will be conducted according to the Rules of Procedure for DotCoop Dispute Resolution Policy (the "Rules of Procedure") (Attachment B) and the Supplemental Rules of the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) who is the authorized provider of dispute resolution services for .coop domains (the "Provider").

2. Your Representations.

By applying to register a domain name, or by asking us to maintain or renew a domain name registration, you hereby represent and warrant to us that (i) the information that you provide to us during the application process to register your domain name is, to the best of your knowledge and belief, accurate and complete, and that any future changes to this information will be provided to us in a timely manner according to the modification procedures in place at that time, (ii) to the best of your knowledge and belief neither the registration of your domain name nor the manner in which you intend to use (or permit others to use) such domain name will directly or indirectly infringe the legal rights of a third party or contravene our policies, (iii) you have all requisite power and authority to execute this Agreement and to perform your obligations hereunder, (iv) you have selected the necessary security option(s) for your domain name registration record, (v) you are not registering the domain name for an unlawful purpose, (vi) you will not knowingly use the domain name in violation of any applicable laws or regulations, and (vii) you are of legal age to enter into this Agreement. It is your responsibility to determine whether your domain name registration infringes or violates someone else's rights.

3. Cancellations, Transfers, and Changes.

Subject to the eligibility restrictions set forth in Attachment A to the Registration Agreement, we will cancel, transfer or otherwise make changes to domain name registrations under the following circumstances:

- a. subject to the provisions of Paragraph 7, our receipt of written or appropriate electronic instructions from you or your authorized agent to take such action;
- b. our receipt of an order from a court or arbitral tribunal, in each case of competent jurisdiction, requiring such action; and/or
- c. our receipt of a decision of a Panel requiring such action in any administrative proceeding to which you were a party and which was conducted under this Policy or a later version of this Policy adopted by DotCoop.

We may also cancel, transfer or otherwise make changes to a domain name registration in accordance with the terms of your Registration Agreement or other legal requirements.

4. Mandatory Administrative Proceeding.

This Paragraph sets forth the type of disputes for which you are required to submit to a mandatory administrative proceeding. These proceedings will be conducted before a three-person panel (the "Panel"), one member of which will be an individual drawn from a list maintained by the Provider of panelists with expertise in cooperative matters.

Applicable Disputes. You are required to submit to a mandatory administrative proceeding in the event that a third party (a "complainant") asserts to the Provider, in compliance with the Rules of Procedure, that

- a. Eligibility Claim: you are not an eligible registrant for a .coop domain name;
- b. Trademark Claim:
 - i. your domain name is identical or confusingly similar to a trademark or service mark in which the complainant has rights;
 - ii. you have no rights or legitimate interests in respect of the domain name; and
 - iii. your domain name has been registered and is being used in bad faith. In the administrative proceeding, the complainant must prove that either element (a) or all three elements of (b) are present.
- c. Eligibility Claim: Evidence of Ineligibility. For the purposes of Paragraph 4(a), the Panel may consider any evidence presented by the complainant supporting its claim that you are not eligible to register within the .coop TLD.
- d. Eligibility Claim: How to Demonstrate Your Rights to and Legitimate Interests in the Domain Name in Responding to an Ineligibility Complaint under Paragraph 4(a). When you receive a complaint, you should refer to Paragraph 5 of the Rules of Procedure in determining how your response should be prepared. If the Panel finds, based on its evaluation of all evidence presented, that your organization falls within one of the categories of the .coop Charter (see <http://www.icann.org/en/tlds/agreements/coop/>), you will have demonstrated your rights or legitimate interests to the domain name for purposes of Paragraph 4(a).

- e. Trademark Claim: Registration and Use in Bad Faith. For the purposes of Paragraph 4(b)(iii), the following circumstances, in particular but without limitation, if found by the Panel to be present, shall be evidence of the registration and use of a domain name in bad faith:
 - i. circumstances indicating that you have registered or you have acquired the domain name primarily for the purpose of selling, renting, or otherwise transferring the domain name registration to the complainant who is the owner of the trademark or service mark or to a competitor of that complainant, for valuable consideration in excess of your documented out-of-pocket costs directly related to the domain name; or
 - ii. you have registered the domain name in order to prevent the owner of the trademark or service mark from reflecting the mark in a corresponding domain name, provided that you have engaged in a pattern of such conduct; or
 - iii. you have registered the domain name primarily for the purpose of disrupting the business of a competitor; or
 - iv. by using the domain name, you have intentionally attempted to attract, for commercial gain, Internet users to your web site or other on-line location, by creating a likelihood of confusion with the complainant's mark as to the source, sponsorship, affiliation, or endorsement of your web site or location or of a product or service on your web site or location.
- f. Trademark Claim: How to Demonstrate Your Rights to and Legitimate Interests in the Domain Name in Responding to a Complaint. When you receive a complaint, you should refer to Paragraph 5 of the Rules of Procedure in determining how your response should be prepared. Any of the following circumstances, in particular but without limitation, if found by the Panel to be proved based on its evaluation of all evidence presented, shall demonstrate your rights or legitimate interests to the domain name for purposes of Paragraph 4(b)(ii):
 - i. before any notice to you of the dispute, your use of, or demonstrable preparations to use, the domain name or a name corresponding to the domain name in connection with a bona fide offering of goods or services, or as part of the operations of a cooperative; or
 - ii. you have been commonly known by the domain name, even if you have acquired no trademark or service mark rights; or
 - iii. you are making a legitimate noncommercial or fair use of the domain name, without intent for commercial gain to misleadingly divert consumers or to tarnish the trademark or service mark at issue.
- g. Initiation of Proceeding and Process and Appointment of Administrative Panel. The Rules of Procedure state the process for initiating and conducting a proceeding and for appointing the Panel.
- h. Consolidation. In the event of multiple disputes between you and a complainant, either you or the complainant may petition to consolidate the disputes before a single Panel. This petition shall be made to the first Panel appointed to hear a pending dispute between the parties. This Panel may consolidate before it any or all such disputes in its sole discretion, provided that the disputes being consolidated are governed by this Policy or a later version of this Policy adopted by dotCoop.
- i. Fees. All fees charged by the Provider in connection with any dispute before a Panel pursuant to this Policy shall be paid by the complainant.
- j. Our Involvement in Administrative Proceedings. We do not, and will not, participate in the administration or conduct of any proceeding before a Panel. In addition, we will not be liable as a result of any decisions rendered by the Panel.

- k. Remedies. The remedies available to a complainant pursuant to any proceeding before a Panel shall be limited to requiring the cancellation of your domain name or the transfer of your domain name registration to the complainant, subject to our eligibility requirements.
- l. Notification and Publication. The Provider will notify us of any decision made by a Panel with respect to a domain name you have registered with us. All decisions under this Policy will be published in full over the Internet.
- m. Availability of Court Proceedings. The mandatory administrative proceeding requirements set forth in Paragraph 4 shall not prevent either you or the complainant from submitting the dispute to a court of competent jurisdiction for independent resolution before such mandatory administrative proceeding is commenced or after such proceeding is concluded. If a Panel decides that your domain name registration should be canceled or transferred, we will wait ten (10) business days (as observed in the location of our principal office) after we are informed by the Provider of the Panel's decision before implementing that decision. We will then implement the decision unless we have received from you during that ten (10) business day period official documentation (such as a copy of a complaint, file-stamped by the clerk of the court) that you have commenced a lawsuit against the complainant in a jurisdiction to which the complainant has submitted under Paragraph 3 of the Rules of Procedure. (In general, that jurisdiction is either the location of our principal office or of your address as shown in our Whois database.) If we receive such documentation within the ten (10) business day period, we will not implement the Panel's decision, and we will take no further action, until we receive (i) evidence satisfactory to us of a resolution between the parties; (ii) evidence satisfactory to us that your lawsuit has been dismissed or withdrawn; or (iii) a copy of an order from such court dismissing your lawsuit or ordering that you do not have the right to continue to use your domain name.

5. All Other Disputes and Litigation.

All other disputes between you and any party other than us regarding your domain name registration that are not brought pursuant to the mandatory administrative proceeding provisions of Paragraph 4 shall be resolved between you and such other party through any court, arbitration or other proceeding that may be available.

6. Our Involvement in Disputes.

We will not participate in any way in any dispute between you and any party other than us regarding the registration and use of your domain name. You shall not name us (or the .coop Registry Operator or any .coop registrar or reseller) as a party or otherwise include us in any such proceeding. In the event that we are named as a party in any such proceeding, we reserve the right to raise any and all defenses deemed appropriate, and to take any other action necessary to defend ourselves.

7. Transfers During a Dispute.

You may not transfer your domain name registration to another holder except as permitted under your Registration Agreement. Additionally, you may not transfer your domain name registration to another holder (i) during a pending administrative proceeding brought pursuant to Paragraph 4 or for a period of fifteen (15) business days (as observed in the location of our principal place of business) after such proceeding is concluded; or (ii) during a pending court proceeding or arbitration commenced regarding your domain name. We reserve the right to cancel any transfer of a domain name registration to another holder that is made in violation of this subparagraph.

8. Policy Modifications.

We reserve the right to modify this Policy at any time. We will post our revised Policy at www.nic.coop at least thirty (30) calendar days before it becomes effective. Unless this Policy has already been invoked by the submission of a complaint to the Provider, in which event the version of the Policy in effect at the time it was invoked will apply to you until the dispute is over, all such changes will be binding upon you with respect to any domain name registration dispute, whether the dispute arose before, on or after the effective date of our change. In the event that you object to a change in this Policy, your sole remedy is to cancel your domain name registration with us, provided that you will not be entitled to a refund of any fees you paid to us. The revised Policy will apply to you until you cancel your domain name registration.

7. Impartiality and Independence

A Panelist shall be impartial and independent and shall have, before accepting appointment, disclosed to the Provider any circumstances giving rise to justifiable doubt as to the Panelist's impartiality or independence. If, at any stage during the administrative proceeding, new circumstances arise that could give rise to justifiable doubt as to the impartiality or independence of the Panelist, that Panelist shall promptly disclose such circumstances to the Provider. In such event, the Provider shall have the discretion to appoint a substitute Panelist.

8. Communication Between Parties and the Panel

No Party or anyone acting on its behalf may have any unilateral communication with the Panel. All communications between a Party and the Panel or the Provider shall be made to a case administrator appointed by the Provider in the manner prescribed in the Provider's Supplemental Rules.

9. Transmission of the File to the Panel

The Provider shall forward the file to the Panel as soon as the last Panelist is appointed.

10. General Powers of the Panel

- b. The Panel may order that any documents submitted in languages other than the language of the administrative proceeding be accompanied by a translation in whole or in part into the language of the administrative proceeding.

12. Further Statements

In addition to the complaint and the response, the Panel may request, in its sole discretion, further statements or documents from either of the Parties.
